Less educational attainment, more involvement with drugs and crime, teen pregnancy & repeat of the same thing in the next generation (85 % of rapists, 70 % in institutions, 90 % runaways).

A significant contributing factor is that one parent is given government inducement and the force of law to erase the other parent out of a child's life.

How often do you hear, 'she/he abandoned them, they are in prison, skipped the country, doesn't love them any more'. In the overwhelming number of cases it isn't true. Go to any Family Court around Australia on any weekday to see how many secondary parents are fighting to see their children.

Children were not designed to cope with one parent engaging in a campaign to erase the other parent out of their life. The denigrated parent in contrast does the right thing and encourages the child's relationship with the other parent, so the child finds it psychologically easier to cope with one parent being all good and the other all bad. One is a saint and the other a demon. This is known as psychological splitting.

Many children take decades to recover from this form of abuse and when they do many are resentful that one parent has denied them growing up without another parent and extended family.

Sadly there is little education & understanding of the problem by most Family Court professionals to deal with this problem and there is no education or educational products available other than these fridge magnets to defend kids.

Every house in Australia needs these fridge magnets to help defend children.

Place 2 on your fridge - give the second one to someone interested.
